WYPR To Help Listeners Interpret Health Care Reform Bill

(Baltimore) -- For most Marylanders, determining if the President's health care reform bill is a placebo or a cure is easier said than done. How will the bill affect them and their families? Will it provide coverage for those in their community who can't afford it? How will the bill impact businesses and business owners? Will it make the health care system more or less effective?

These and other questions about the health care reform bill will be posed, discussed and analyzed on WYPR 88.1 each day during the week of April 19th on Maryland Morning with Sheilah Kast, Midday with Dan Rodricks and WYPR News during Morning Edition. Each program will feature professionals from the health care and medical industries who will provide their insights, experience and expertise on issues, challenges and opportunities that will result from the health care reform bill.

"Health care is ever-present. It affects everyone and, therefore, it is incumbent upon WYPR to provide the tools they will need to understand how the reform bill will impact our lives," said Anthony Brandon, president and General Manager of WYPR.
